Councilmember Doyle moved, seconded by Councilmember Stall, to approve first reading.

Planning and Development Manager Jay Graham referred to the current RDV language which was intended to stimulate growth and an exception which specifically omitted parking and buffer requirements. Mr. Graham advised while the City’s residential growth is currently solid, there are parking issues occurring, and the amendment will rescind that exception.

Councilmember Flemming stated she thinks RDV zoning should be examined as it relates to Unity Park and the City needs to be careful with how it allows other entities to affect affordable housing efforts. Councilmember Flemming also stated it is time to protect Unity Park and the surrounding communities because there are neighborhoods which have been impacted by high end residential developments.

Mayor White stated RDV was created to help stabilize neighborhoods that are changing, but noted maybe it is not as restrictive as it needs to be.

Councilmember Doyle referred to the parking requirements, especially on the corridors, and stated she would like for the Planning Department to have a little more flexibility because the needs are changing. Councilmember Doyle referred to food trucks as an example where flexibility is needed.

After discussion, the motion carried unanimously.

Ms. Ramseur advised the Furman Company is planning a $7 million renovation of the former Poe Hardware and Supply Company on Perry Avenue. Ms. Ramseur commented on city staff working with the developer to design the streetscape enhancements including on-street parking, decorative lighting, and wider sidewalks. Ms. Ramseur stated the developer expects the total streetscape costs to be approximately $265,000 and the development agreement establishes the standards for those streetscape improvements as well as the reimbursement of $150,000 of that cost.

Councilmember Flemming stated the redevelopment will help to improve the community without intruding into the neighborhood.

Mayor White asked if the Greenville Technical College Culinary School was still going to occur. Steve Navarro of the Furman Company and Perry Avenue Investors affirmed the Culinary School and stated their space should be ready by the end of the year.

Councilmember Doyle commented on the Comprehensive Plan Advisory Committee members recognizing the number of people who are saving the City's older buildings and adapting them for new reuse. Mr. Navarro said the company is very excited to have the project and to work with the community on ideas for the project. Mr. Navarro asked for patience from the community for developers who are renovating older buildings as it requires more time than new construction. Mr. Navarro thanked Council for its support of the project.
